

Google Ads on JGP.net

Sunday, 17 December 2006

Last Updated Sunday, 17 December 2006

I like to see what & who are the Google Ads on JGP.net. The idea is not to make a huge profit on that (you should come more often and click a lot more on the ads to get me rich).

A lot of my articles & content are either Informix-oriented or Java-oriented. It's always funny to see who gets caught by the ads mechanism. A few months ago, my friend Hal Maner got caught several times with his company M Systems Intl .

More recently, Four J's Development Tools got caught too. I found it amusing and worth mentioning. I also take the opportunity to remind you about my Informix 4GL study in 2006 , which is available here.

The study is comparing (in random order) Querix , Four J's Development Tools , Aubit4GL , IBM Informix I-4GL and Rational EGL .

And I don't get any money if you click on those links ;-).